BY THE GOVERNOR OF NORTH CAROLINA.

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, a number of public meetings have recently been held in various portions of the State, in some of which threats have been made of combined resistance to the execution of the laws of Congress, in regard to conscription and the collection of taxes, thereby endangering the public peace and tranquility as well as the common cause of independence, which we have so solemnly engaged to defend: And whereas, it is my sworn duty to see all the laws of the land faithfully executed, and quiet and order maintained within our borders,

Now, therefore, I, ZEBULON B. VANCE, Governor of the State of North Carolina, do issue this my Proclamation, commanding all such persons to renounce such evil intentions, and warning them to beware of the criminal and fatal consequences of carrying such threats into execution.

The inalienable and invaluable right of the people to assemble together and consult for the common good, together with its necessary concomitants, the freedom of speech and the press, are secured to you, my countrymen, by the most sacred compacts. They shall never find a disturber in me. Yet you will remember that the same instruments which guarantee these great rights, also limit you to the exercise of them, within the bounds of law, and impose upon me the solemn duty of seeing that these bounds be not transgressed.—The Constitution of the Confederate States, and all laws passed in pursuance thereof, are the supreme law of the land; resistance to them by combination is treason, and without combination, is a high crime against the laws of your country. Let no one be deceived. So long as these laws remain upon the statue book they shall be executed. Surely, my countrymen, you would not seek to cure the evils of one revolution by plunging the country into another. You will not knowingly, to the present desolating war with the common enemy, add horrors of internal strife and entire subversion of law and civil authority! You must not forget the enviable character which you have always maintained, as a sober, conservative and law abiding people; nor would I have you to forget the plain, easy and constitutional method of redressing your grievances. Meet and denounce any existing laws, if you think proper—you have that right—and instruct your representatives in Congress or the State Legislature, as the case may be, to repeal them. Your own chosen servants made those obnoxious laws—they can repeal them, if such are your instructions. If you regard them as unconstitutional, our Supreme Court sits ready to decide upon all cases properly brought before it. Its decisions are final in the State of North Carolina, and shall be executed while the power remains in your Executive to enforce any law made, but can be most beneficially effected in the way our farthers marked out by the ballot-box, and the other constitutionally appointed means. In times of great public sensibility like the present, any departure from this legal channel is revolutionary and dangerous, and tends to the division and destruction of our people.

It is my great desire, and, I hope, that of all good citizens, that our people should remain united, befall us what may. Should we triumph in the great struggle for independence, let no feelings of revenge, no bitterness, mar the rejoicing of that glorious day. Should we fall, and come short of that great object for which we have struggled so long and bled so freely, let not our strifes and domestic feuds add to the bitterness of defeat,

Attempt suddenly to change the existing order of things would only result in bloodshed and ruin. I therefore implore you, my countrymen, of all shades of political opinion, to abstain from assembling together for the purpose of denouncing each other, whether at home or in the army, and to avoid seeking any remedy for the evils of the times by other than legal means and through the properly constituted authorities. We are embarked in the holiest of all causes which can stir the hearts of patriots—the cause of liberty and independence. We are committed to it by every tie that can bind and honorable people. Multitudes of our bravest and best have already sealed it with their blood, whilst others, giving up all earthly possessions, are either languishing in dungeons or are homeless wandering through the land, and all have felt, in a greater or less degree, the iron hand of war. A great and glorious nation is struggling to be born and wondering kingdoms and distant empires are stilled with listening hope and admiration, watching this greatest of human events. Let them not, I pray you, be shocked with the spectacle of domestic strife and petty, malignant feuds. Let not our enemy be rejoiced to behold our strong arms and stronger devotion which have often made him tremble, turned against ourselves. Let us rather show that the God of Liberty is in His Holy Temple—the hearts of freemen—and bid all the petty bickering of earth keep silence before Him.

Instead or engaging in this unholy and unpatriotic strife and threatening to resist the laws of the land and endangering the peace of society, let us prepare diligently and with hopeful hearts for the hardships and sufferings of the coming winter.—Heaven has blessed us with abundant crops, but thousands of our poor are unable to purchase. Let us begin in time and use every effort to provide for them and secure them against suffering. And let us exert ourselves to the utmost to return to duty the many brave but misguided men who have left their country's flag in the hour of danger, and God will yet bless us and our children, and our children's children will thank us fo not despairing of the Republic in its darkest hours of disaster, and still more for adhering to and preserving, amid the fiery trials of war, conservative sentiments and the rights and civil liberties of the young Confederacy.

In witness thereof, ZEBULON B. | L. S. | VANCE, our Governor, Captain General and Commander-in-Chief, hath signed these presents and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed.

Done at the city of Raleigh, this 7th day of September, A. D., 1863, and in the year of American Independence the 88th.

Z. B. VANCE.

PAPER.

OFFICE C. S. ORD., WORKS, SALISBURY, N. C. June 24 1863.

This article is being manufactured largely at various points in the Confederacy but the scarcity of rags bids fair to interfere seriously with the manufacture.

In the manufacture of Catridge paper used in the fabrication of ammunition, raw cotton can be used if a certain proportion of hemp be mixed with it.

I am authorized by the Ordnance Department to purchase material for the purpose, and I take this method of appealing to the people to assist me in collecting old rags, bagging, waste cordage &c., or any of old hemp.

A good price will be paid for the above material varying from 10 to 25 cents per pound according to condition, locality &c.

I will also pay 40 cents per pound for old scap lead delivered at the works.

Gen. Forrest.

The Macon Confederate states that Gen. Forrest has also been suspended and relieved of his command by Gen. Bragg.

Gen Polk's Address.

The address made by Gen. Polk on taking leave of his corps, is very touching. It will be found in another column.

The Chattanooga Rebel, referring to the address, says:

"We publish in another column the address of Lieutenant General Polk, issued to his command upon taking leave of them. The warrior churchman never wrote a more eloquent document. We learn from those who were present that his parting from his military family, to which he was indeed a father, was affecting in the extreme. Tears bedimmed many an eye and trickled down many a cheek, which had not bleached in battle. We must confess that the film gathers in our own as we read the last greeting of the old hero to his troops. It is so simple, true and direct.—It appeals at once to the heart, and attests the magnanimity, the manhood, the deep devotion and the undying spirit of one of the best soldiers the South has sent into the field. For the compliment paid the gallant Cheatham, who remains in command of the corps as the senior Major General, all Tennesseeans must be grateful.

Farewell Address of Lieut Gen. Leonidas Polk,

To the Officers and Soldiers of Polk's Corps,

Army of Tennessee, Polk's Corps Tenn., Mission Ridge, Sept. 30th, 1863.

In consequence of an unfortunate disagreement between myself and the Commander-in-Chief of this Department, I have been relieved of my command, and am about to retire from the Army. Without attempting to explain the circumstances of this unhappy difference or prejudicing the public mind, by a premature appeal to its judgement, I must be permitted to express my unqualified conviction of the rectitude of my conduct, and that time and investigation will amply vindicate my action on the field of the Chickamauga.

I cannot, however, part even temporarily with the gallant officers and soldiers of my old Corps, without the deepest feeling of regret and a heartfelt expression of my gratitude for the courage, conduct and devotion they have always manifested while under my command.

Belmont, Shiloh, Perryville, Murfreesborough and Chickamauga, all attest on your part the very highest qualities, soldierly and heroic, and are crowded with precious memories. Contending with a numerous well appointed and merciless enemy, for all that man holds dear, you have born unexampled privation with fortitude, fought with undaunted bravery and ever yielded a ready and cheerful obedience to our officers.

Soldiers who struggle in such a cause and with such hearts can never be conquered." Clouds and darkness may surround you for a time, but the sunlight of the future is bright and glowing, the blood of Patriots is never shed in vain, and your final victory is certain and assured.

Whoever commands you, my earnest exhortation and request to you is, to fight on and fight ever with true hearts until your independence is achieved. Thousands of hearts may fail crushed and bleeding under the weapons of the foe, or the passions or mistakes of friends, but the great cause must never be sacrificed, or our flag abandoned. Our cause is just and your duty to your Country and God is as clear as the sun in the heavens.

I leave my command in the care of the bravest of the brave, who has often led them in the darkest hour of their trials; he and you will have my hopes and prayers to the Ruler of the Universe, for your happiness and success. Your kindness, devotion and respect for me exhibited during the years of our association both in camp and on the field is graven on my heart and will be treasured there until it ceases to beat.

Your friend,

Signed: L. POLK,
Lieutenant General.

ARMY CORRESPONDENCE.

For the Daily Bulletin.]

HEADQUARTERS M. R 's,
Camp near Madison Mills, Va.,
October 2d, 1863.

Dear Bulletin:

As it is a very inclement day and nothing to do [illegible] giving you a few items in the way of passtime.

Our army is at a stand still, and the enemy shows no disposition to advance at this point, but there is a report in circulation that they are going in the direction of Chancellorsville. I think that the last fight at that point was so disastrous that they will hardly attempt it there again. Their forward movement in the last two weeks was more to cover over their designs of reinforcing Rosencranz in the West, than any thing else. Their attempted raid with cavalry was a perfect failure, and how could it have been any thing else, when the 63d was on hands. A correspondent in the Richmond papers attributes our success to a Virginia brigade who gallantly charged the enemy at Jacks Shops. The fact is, there was no Virginia brigade there on the 22d: Gen. Jones did fight them on the 21st. Our brigade, which has been changed again and placed under command of Gen. James B. Gordon (too much change) was on that day in the front, and Gen. Butler's in the rear as a reserve.—General Jones may have been at some other point up the River, but we did not meet with them again after passing them on the road early that morning. They were placed in the front on the 23d, but there was no fighting on that day—we only returned to the battle field to bury our dead—the enemy had carried off our wounded at the Shops, as they held possession of the ground on the evening of the fight.

Lieut. Bryce is in their hands and I do not know whether he died of his wound or not, but it was thought by the Surgeon that he was mortally wounded.

We had some little firing on the river two or three days ago. We lost one videt captured. The enemy's object was to make Robinson River the line which has become so. They are now perfectly quiet—no stir on either side.

The enemy were somewhat deceived at the strength of our forces on the Rapidann River, or no doubt they would have made an attack.

The Western news is quite encouraging to the army of the Potomac and keeps them in good spirits. It is ready to meet Gen. Meade at any time that General Lee wishes, and is confident of success.

The news from France is quite flattering in bringing about an early peace, or assistance in a naval force, and compelling England to show her hand—declaring for the Government or the other.

We have heard nothing more of the disaffection in North Carolina, and conclude that it has died out, or that it is secretly at work and will burst forth some day unexpectedly to all. It is always well to be watchful when a storm ceases to brew, for there may be yet an under current that must work itself out.

There has been but little said about speculators. Their "on to Richmond" has, I presume, like their allies, been played out, after doing all the damage that could be done in their sphere.

Among other things there are duties to perform which one regrets, but a man should never flinch when duty calls. A warm friend may be made an enemy by performing that duty, but friendship should be sacrificed to duty. But let every one do his duty and there will be no cause to complain. The bond of friendship will be the more closely drawn. An enemy will sympathize with his bitterest foe.

One of the 63d regiment, a member of company F, was wounded during the last summer's campaign and was sent to the hospital, from which place he was sent home. On arriving at Charlotte, suffering with his wound, he applied to a supposed doctor to dress it for him. The doctor demanded two dollars in advance. He tendered the only dollar that he had, but it was refused, and nothing less than two dollars would procure his services. This man lay upon his back for two months suffering with his wound and has not yet entirely recovered. If he had been at the point of death, for the sake of one dollar, he would have been permitted to have filled his grave. This is humanity bought with a price that would make his Satanic majesty with all his imps rejoice, that it had become so cheap. That, that which was once considered priceless, could now be bought with much less than gold. But I may be a little too fast. He may not be one of the human species, but belong more properly to a mongrel breed, possessing only the power of speech and a sheep skin upon which is a few signatures of some Philadelphia Doctors, who signed it by the light of a dark-lantern, not seeing the phiz of the applicant. The son cannot prevent or in any way remedy the misdeeds of the father, and therefore should none the less be respected. In such a case as this the public demand the name. His office is on the corner of the street not far from the [illegible]

It seems as if it was not going to quit raining. Occasionally it stops but only to storm the more and heavier—for the oftener it stops the heavier it gets. The rivers will soon be up so high that there will be no crossing only on bridges. Our camp is now somewhat flooded.

The Mecklenburg Rangers are all well and in good spirits. We are looking for a change in our regiment soon—it is needed. Our horses are fareing badly, and in all probability will die up very fast this winter if something is not done soon. The policy of Quartermasters is to guard corn fields and feed the briars until the enemy shall cause them to move quarters. They are not among the fighting material of the army, but they always have "fat" horses.

For the Bulletin.]

MR. EDITOR:—Since it has come to be the custom of the present day for every scribbler to be a public writer, permit me a small space in the columns of your valuable Journal, to endeavor to answer a few questions asked the planters of the South, by a Charleston correspondent over the date and signature of "Common Sense," Aug. 30th 1863, which appeared in your journal of Sept. 22d 1863. The chief evil under which we labor during the present struggle is the high price of living. That is a fact we all admit, but where and by whom did it start, and who is keeping the ball in motion. Is it the Merchant, Manufacturer or Speculator? No, none of these. It is all heaped on the Planters, who (he says) are the sole and main cause of all the extravagant prices of every thing in the way of living and the depreciation of our currency, which has arrived to an alarming extent.

Under the circumstances and peril of our country it is no appropriate time for wrangle and disorder, but we should be united as one man, and stand shoulder to shoulder in defence of our cause, and trusting in the Great Giver of all good we will most assuredly win a glorious independence. But alas, alas, what do we see? It is a perfect mass of wrangle and confusion, with a large portion of our people some of whom are trying to avoid the duty they owe their country, by being one in the ranks, whilst others have hired substitutes and then turned loose a high-handed game of speculation to make up the money it cost them; now I wish to state a few facts to our friend "Common Sense."

When the present troubles came upon us it was a general quandary with the merchant, mechanic and planter as to the best method of proceeding. The merchant was doubtful of purchasing goods, the mechanic was in despair about his business, and the planter become conscious at once that it was essential to abandon the culture of cotton.

The next consideration was the subject of Blockade, which cut off commercial intercourse, which deprived us of indispensable necessaries of life, such as salt, leather, &c., then the cry arose that the price of these articles was gone huge and mountain high, and the planter was selling his produce at the former prices, and the merchant advanced his figures on articles which had been stored away in the warehouses of Charleston, Savannah and other sea-port cities which had been purchased long before the war or blockade, I ask Mr. Common Sense did the planters do that?

But as the war made rapid progress and there was call after call for soldiers and there was no exemption with the farming population, and thousands of acres of land grew up in weeds for the want of the husbandmen who was far away in defence of his country, and yet the merchant was going higher and higher with his articles of merchandize merely because he saw that he could get any price that he pleased to demand. The manufacturer could purchase cotton as low as he ever did, and advance on his goods, this I say without the fear of successful contradiction, for in February 1862, I sold my cotton to a manufacturer at the low figure of 7½ cents, and he then had advanced 50 per cent. on his goods, Who is the faulty one there?

But whilst for the want of competition with our manufacturing population, they can sell at five, ten and twenty prices and yet our friend Common Sense wants the planter to be content with one. That is common sense, yes very common. But he goes still farther, and has the audacity to say that the planters are doing our cause more harm than all the Yankee armies combined. Whoopee! such sense. Give him another pinch and he will make believe that the Confederacy can get on better to dispense with the business of agriculture, but if he would but pause for a moment and re-consider the state of affairs he would change his sentiments, and have some sympathy for the planter, who has contributed as largely to the cause of our country as any other class, as a slight view over the land will plainly show to any rational being. The ranks of our armies will show as many, or more planters in proportion to the population than any other class.

In another place he complains of the want of slave labor for coast defence. He says our Chieftain has called and called in vain, Yes and he may call until the stars give their last Halo, so far as some of the citizens of the coast is concerned if they can get themselves and their slaves in the interior out of the way of Yankee danger,

Again he charges the planter with the depreciation of our currency, which as I said before has arrived to an alarming ex[illegible] not our trading class the first to offer an advance on the coin, when the planter was glad to get any sort? And yet there is in every village, town and city, in the Confederacy a class of Hucksters and Bloodsuckers who are offering as high as ten dollars in Confederate money for one of coin, and yet the planter is charged with it all by extortion. Now I ask if it takes ten dollars to make one, is it extortion to demand four dollars per bushel for corn, 20 cents per lb. for flour, and 1 dollar for bacon and lard, which is 40 cents for corn, 2 cents for flour and 10 cents for bacon cheaper than these articles sold before the war or blockade, and if the planters have nineteen twentieths of the war debt to pay that is heaped upon us which is their proportion of the population and taxable property, they infallibly must be doing the same proportion of fighting, is that an in[illegible] cause or not? Whilst our towns and cities are swarming with stout young men, who are seeking hiding places, and sneering at the war-worn soldier because of his ragged clothes or naked feet, and those who are bearing the weight of the burden of this unholy struggle, is bearing the weight of the scoffs and harsh language, if it is not the design to insult or offend, such language is not essential, neither is there a winning tendency with it, but let us all use our exertions and influence in a proper and becoming manner towards ourselves and neighbors, and the prosperity of our cause, and the blessings from on high will rest upon us.

Together let us rally,
Together let us be,
Young and old we'll fight for
Blood-bought Liberty.

Liability of Foreign Residents.

We find the following in the Charleston papers. A similar question to that raised by Mr. Walker has arisen also in Georgia, between Gov. Brown and the British Consul at Savannah. The position of our Government on the question involved, is stated by Mr. Benjamin in the close of the article below:

THE LIABILITY OF BRITISH SUBJECTS TO SERVE IN STATE DEFENCE.—On the 16th of August, 1861, Mr. H. Pinckney Walker, Her Britannic Majesty's Acting Consul at the port of Charleston, addressed a communication to Col. E. Magrath, commanding 1st regiment Charleston Guard, concerning the liability of British subjects to bear arms against the forces of the United States.

Mr. Walker says he has advised British subjects generally to acquiesce in the State militia organizations, but at the same time he informed them that in the event the militia should be brought into conflict with the forces of the United States, either before or after being turned over to the Confederate Government, the services required of them would be such as British subjects could not be expected to perform.

The letter in question was forwarded through the proper channel to the Secretary of War, and by him referred to the Secretary of State, who returned it with the following endorsed opinion, which is concurred in by the Secretary of War, and is published for the information of all concerned:

The views of Acting Consul Walker do not meet the approval of this department. While the Government claims no military service from mere sojourners those who have acquired residence in the Confederacy are bound by law to aid in its defence.

(Signed.) J. P. BENJAMIN,
Secretary of State.

Dogs and Dog Oil.

The revelations made in Mr. Ferneyhough's letter to Mr. McCue are certainly very surprising. He tells us that dog oil is equal almost to neet's foot oil for dressing leather, and that it is worth $15 a gallon. Each dog will yield a gallon of oil.—Moreover, dog skins make excellent kid gloves, first rate summer boots for gentlemen, and number one ladies' shoes. Each dog skin, dressed, is worth $38. Moreover, the carcasses of the skinned dogs make a valuable ingredient in nitre beds. Moreover, 500,000 dogs destroy over $9,000,000 worth of sheep in a year. Adding dog oil to dog leather, dog kid, dog nitre and saved sheep, the grand total of grand revenue to the State, which might be made by a proper disposition of the dogs, would be, at a rough estimate, forty-five or fifty millions of dollars.

How easy to pay the public debt with these startling canine resources, which throw Gov. Wise's "oyster fundum" completely in the shade. We see no good reason why dogs should not be used for this purpose. Of course, it would not do to kill all the dogs the first year. Enough should be left to keep up the breed. In fact, they are so profitable, that the greatest attention ought to be paid to dog culture, so that the annual dog crops should amount to 500,000 spare dogs, or say fifty millions dollars. The subject is worthy of serious consideration. Perhaps the best plan would be for some enterprising capitalist to establish in this city a dog oil mill. He would find no difficulty in getting dogs enough to make a fair experiment. The dog net men would made him a present of all their captures, and the negroes would sell him their coon dogs and bench leg fice at a very reasonable price.

As to dog oil, it is evident that Mr. Ferneyhough has not tested all its virtues.—The fastidious may object to its use as a condiment for salads, but, regarded as a preparation of bark, dog oil might prove efficacious in miasmatic diseases. Why should'nt canine be a substitute for quinine, and who shall say that on the principle, similia similibus curantur, the active principle of dog may not turn out to be the long sought specific for hydrophobia? For [illegible] with dog-latin, may still be in the very alphabet of dog knowledge.

The New York Herald of a recent date contains a list of the members of the Federal House of Representatives, from which it appears that with California, Deleware, Maryland, Vermont, and West Virginia still to elect, the House stands eighty-three Lincoln, and eighty-eight Opposition.—The States to elect had in the last House seven Lincoln and eight Opposition.

Chickamauga.

Chickamauga! thy name which the Indian gave,
While seeking relief in thy bright bounding wave,
From diseases fever and pain;
Is best fitting thee now, since thy banks, [illegible]
Deeds of valor, of daring, of suffering untold,
Rivalling those of Manassas plain.

A calm Sabbath morn, it was God's holy day,
Two armies were marshalled in "battle array"
To conquer or die on the field;
One, flushed with late victory, sought for it there,
But found it were better a lion to dare,
Than tempt to make Southerners yield.

Bragg, noble Bragg, with his veterans so true
Determined the blue-coats there to subdue,
Or die as brave soldiers should die—
While Longstreet, Hill, Buckner, and Hood's brave command,
Formed each and all an invincible band,
Resolved that the Yankees should fly.

Georgia, old Georgia, fresh laurels for thee!
Thy sons fought nobly their soil to free,
From the tread of an insolent foe;
While Carolinians, Mississippians, Virginians, and all,
Both officer and private were ready to fall,
Giving Rosencrans' army a blow.

Awful the carnage, as shot after shot,
Mid fierce cannonading the leaden rain hot,
Laid many a noble heart low;
While borne on the winds thro' forest trees sighing,
The groans of the suffering, wounded and dying,
On mountain and plain down below.

One moment successful, the next giving way,
To numbers o'erpowering of Yankees that day
Our troops pushed onward to glory;
And ere the sun's parting beam was fading away,
God gave us the victory o'er a despots sway,
On that field of blood so gory.

To Thee, gracious Father all homage is due,
Oh! give us more faith, our courage renew,
In this our dark trying hour;
For comfort and strength relying on Thee,
Beleiving that Thou wilt soon set us free
From Northerner's hatred and power.

Chickamauga! still calmly wilt thou flow
Unmind[illegible] of heroes, while singing thy song,
Who fell on thy dearly bought shore;
But hearts, aching hearts, will think of them ever
While asking our God to give us forever,
An honorable peace once more.

HISTORICAL PARALLEL.—It is curious to observe how tyranny reproduces itself in different ages. The following is an extract from a proclamation of Alva to his Flemish fellow-subjects in 1573. With a few verbal alterations and a dash of flippancy and vulgarity, it might be supposed to be the production of Mr. Lincoln in 1868:

"But if ye disregard these offers of money, receiving them with closed ears, as heretofore, then we warn you that there is no rigor, nor cruelty, however great, which you are not to expect, by laying waste, starvation and the sword, in such a manner that nowhere shall remain a relic of that which at present exists, but his Majesty will strip bare and utterly depopulate the land, and cause it to be inhabited again by strangers; since otherwise his Majesty could not believe that the will of God and his Majesty had been accomplished."—[Motley's Dutch Republic, vol. The flag of truce boat arrived yesterday at City Point with seventeen prisoners, fifteen of whom belonged to Chaplain's Brigade, they were captured at Gettysburg.

Lieut. Alston, Morgan's Chief of Staff, and another officer, one of Chaplain's, states that there is about seventy-five of our surgeons at Fort McHenry.

FROM VIRGINIA.

GORDONSVILLE, Oct. 8.

The reports received yesterday should have read the enemy is falling back from Culpepper Court House, they were yet in apparent force there this morning, the main body have moved to a point above, supposed to be between Madison Court House and Sperryville.

Twenty-five prisoners, captured by Whites cavalry near Chain Bridge, four miles from Washington City, and ten prisoners from Robinsons River were brought here to-day.

FROM CHARLESTON.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 8.

We have been firing steadily at Morris's Island all day long, the enemy making no reply.

A careful reconnoisance of the enemy's works, leads to the belief that he will not be ready to open fire for several days yet.

FROM THE WEST.

MOBILE, Oct. 8

The Tribune has late news from the Trans-Mississippi Department through Maj. Tom Ochiltree, who is just from the West.

Gen. Price has falling back to Arkadelphia, with a largely superior force of the enemy in front.

Gen, Taylor's army is being concentrated near Alexandria, with the exception of the brigades under Tom Green.

On the 16th ult., Gen. Green attacked and defeated a superior Yankee army near the mouth of Red River. His force comprised two brigades of cavalry and one of infantry, with which he engaged two divisions of the enemy. The victory was complete. He has command of the River, against all the efforts of the Yankees to drive him away from it.

The last reports from below represent that Banks, with a force of 25,000, was camping at Brashear City on Berwicks bay.

Taylor is watching his movements closely, and it is supposed would give him battle about Vermillion Bridge in Attakapas.

The victory at Sabine Pass is complete and without a parallel in this war.

The official reports shows that the enemy under Gen. Franklin and Weitzel, with twenty-three transports and twelve thousand men, and four gunboats, attempted to land. The whole Confederate force at the Fort and Pass were about 42, (the Jeff. Davis Guards,) mostly Irish.—The nearest re-inforcements were at Houston. This little band fought the enemy several hours, and disabled three gun boats, and drove the whole fleet ingloriously away, capturing their two best boats, the Clifton and Sachem, eighteen guns, and three hundred and eighty nine prisoners, including Com. Crocker The gun boat Arizona is supposed to have sunk, as they put to sea. Magruder was soon on boat Clifton.

Active preparations are being made to meet the invasion of the enemy. The people of Texas are rising from the ages of 15 to 60.

The Tribune's latest information from Pensacola, states that the yellow fever is raging among the Yankee fleet, the crews have been sent to Santa Rosa Island.

BRITTON'S BLUE-BLACK WRITING FLUID!

MANUFACTURED BY
J. E. BRITTON,
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

THE subscriber is manufacturing at Charlotte, N. C. an article of WRITING INK
superior to any that has yet been offered to the Southern public.

This INK is of a Blue-Black color, and will not mould or thicken, nor will it corrode a steel pen.

Tests having been made with this Ink, both in the sun and in water, and they have proven such, that the subscriber feels confident in offering it to dealers as a superior article. The sun will not deface its color, but gives to it a brighter one, and by putting the manuscript written with it in water, it will give it a deeper blue-black color.

It will be found that it will not run, and parts written with it becoming wet will not be injured or defaced in the least.

It is purely a chemicle article, and those procuring this Ink will get an article that time will not deface, but which will give it, instead, a more permanent and lasting quality.

Manuscripts written thirteen years ago, (and which have been exposed to the sun and air since that time,) with Ink manufactured from this receipt, are as bright and as good to-day as when first written.

Dealers will be supplied on as liberal terms as possible.

PROSPECTUS

THE undersigned will issue, in a few weeks, at Richmond, Va., a weekly journal, to be called "THE SOUTHERN PUNCH!"

It will be nearly a duplicate in size, form and general features of the world renowned London "Punch," so long an acknowledged power in the British Isles in the reformation of public abuses, and the enlightenment of the public mind, flashing as it did with the genius of Hood, of Jarold, and a host of wits, poets, and philosophic thinkers.

The proprietors of "THE SOUTHERN PUNCH" bring to the difficult task of successfully conducting such a journal the advantage of capital, abundant mental resources, and pratical skill. The editor for many years past, has been connected, in a leading editroial capacity, with the largest daily papers of New Orleans and Mobile, while the gentlemen who will have charge of typographical and engraving departments are unsurpassed in that skill necessary for success.

Every number will be illustrated with numerous cuts, appropriate to the times (humorous and serious,) from the hands of one of the best engravers on the continent—an artist whose name is familiar to the reading public of the South.

In fine, the undersigned are determined to make "THE SOUTHERN PUNCH" the spiciest most readable, and best illustrated literary journal in America. It shall distance competition.
